WASHINGTON, D. C.

January 27, 1914.

My dear Sir:

The inclosed copies of correspondence will show you that a slight controversy has arisen concerning the article on forest malaria by you which appeared in the last number of the Proceedings of the Entomological Society of Washington. I shall be glad if you will read Mr. Knab's letter and my reply, and let me know whether you desire to have any correction published.

Yours very truly,
